

Andy Campbell

Head of Refrigeration Environmental, Tesco

Biography

Andy Campbell started his career as a refrigeration mechanic in 1991 at the Dublin fruit markets and emigrated to Australia in 1997 where he worked as a senior design engineer for the Hussmann Corporation. Graduated with a diploma in mechanical engineering in 2000 from Brisbane T.A.F.E. college he returned to the northern hemisphere where he worked as a design engineer while attending London South Bank University (LSBU) and graduated with a first class honours degree in 2005.

Campbell was awarded the Institute of Refrigeration's Ted Perry award for his research into CO₂ refrigeration in 2005. He is currently enrolled in LSBU's PhD program researching natural refrigerant systems in supermarkets and as head of refrigeration environmental at Tesco, Campbell is leading a change to natural refrigerants within the company.
