

Keilly Witman

Leader GreenChill Program, U.S. Environmental Protection Agency

Keilly Witman works to protect the earth's ozone layer in the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency's Stratospheric Protection Division. She runs EPA's GreenChill Advanced Refrigeration Partnership, which is a cooperative alliance with the supermarket industry to reduce its impact on the ozone layer and climate change. Prior to joining the EPA, Keilly attended Vermont Law School, where she received a Juris Doctor Degree (cum laude) and a Master's Degree in Studies of Environmental Law (magna cum laude) in 2006. Her previous career of over 10 years was in global marketing strategy for major consumer products companies.
